The comments from the three anonymous reviewers

Reviewer 1. Findings from proposed research has good potential to enhance scientific understanding of risky decision-making. In addition, applicant envisions using findings to develop targeted interventions for both children and adults in such areas as health or financial decision-making.

Reviewer 2. The proposed research has some very clear broader impacts but the applicant's discussion of these was not as explicit as it could have been. Specifically, it would have been useful to discuss how the specific proposed research would directly lead to the broader impact with regard to aiding decision making or even education.

Reviewer 3. Solid theoretical framework - helps support program of research; links could be better developed between studies - for example why would one expect to replicate findings of experiment 1? What is the value of examining people from different ethnic and religious backgrounds (as proposed in study II)? Practical application of findings could be more explicitly stated - i.e., perhaps by providing concrete examples of how research may translate into practical applications/benefit society more broadly.
